

The Web Tier

The web application lives inside the JBoss application server and provides small web pages which a mobile device could request via its internet browser. The web application itself contains no business logic. Instead it calls appropriate methods on session beans that build the business tier.